FIRST RUN GOES TO GIANTS WHEN HITS BEAR FRUIT

Three Safeties Off Johnson in Third Bring One Run; Nats Miss Chance.

BETTING ON SENATORS

American League Club Is Eight to Five Favorite to Cop Clash; Johnson, Opening Second With Hit, Caught Off First Base; Is Costly.

By United Press.

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y., Oct. 8.—With the two contenders locked in a 2-2 tie, the World Series battles were resumed here this afternoon between the New York Giants and the Washington Senators.

The Giants scored the first run again today, tallying in the third. The run came after three consecutive hits. The National Leaguers seemed to be finding the ace of American League moundsmen rather frequently.

Johnson opened the second frame with a single but was caught off first. He had rounded the base in an effort to go to second. Seeing he could not make it he turned back but was nabbed. Two other hits followed his but the run was left as a result of the play on the pitcher at first.

Strong favorites of the New York fans for some unusual reason, the Senators were also a favorite in the betting for the reason of Walter Johnson, the veteran pitching star of the American League champions. Odds of five to three were offered that the Senators would go back to Washington tonight with a three to two lead on the series.

Another capacity crowd was in prospect. The upper stands were packed and the lower stands where all the seats had been sold in advance were almost full.

The batteries: For Washington, Johnson and Ruel; for New York, Bentley and Gowdy.

The game started at 2.02.

First Inning.

Washington—McNeely lined to Lindstrom who leaped into the air for the catch. Harris flied to Wilson. Rice popped to Terry back of first base. No runs, no hits, no errors. Bentley was working nicely with a fast ball and a curve. Lindstrom's nice stop cut off a sure double.

New York—Johnson got a tremendous hand when he went to the box. Lindstrom singled to center on the first ball pitched. Frisch fouled to Miller in front of the Washington dugout. Young flied to McNeely who made a long running catch in deep center. Lindstrom out, stealing, Ruel to Harris. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning.

Washington—Goslin beat out an infield hit to Terry. Judge flied out to Wilson. Bluege forced Goslin at second Terry to Frisch. Ruel walked. Miller was thrown out, Frisch to Terry. No runs, one hit, no errors.

New York—Kelly fouled out to Miller. Terry grounded to Judge, unassisted. Wilson fouled to Judge. The Giants were hitting at anything. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning.

Washington—Johnson singled to left but was out when he overran first, Wilson to Jackson to Terry. He rounded first and raced for second but tried to get back to the initial sack when he was put out. McNeely bounded safely towards third base. Harris singled towards first, McNeely stopping at second. Rice popped out to Gowdy. Goslin went out, Frisch to Terry. No runs, three hits, no errors.

New York—Jackson beat out a hit to short. Gowdy missed the third strike. Bentley singled to right, Jackson going to third. Lindstrom beat out an infield hit to third, Jackson scoring and Bentley going to second. Frisch hit to Bluege who tried to get Bentley at third, but the Giant hurler beat the throw, filling the sacks. Young flied out to Rice, who threw to Johnson, who relayed the ball to Ruel, putting Bentley out at the plate.

One run, three hits, no errors.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—After a complete revival and a great rally by the Washington Senators in the fourth game, the world series was again squared today, with the Senators and the Giants holding two games.

Although the two champion clubs are practically in the same position where they started, the Senators are again the favorites in the betting and odds of eight to five were offered they would win.

Pitt University Director Frees Wife To Marry Another

By United Press.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 8.—Dr. Alfred L. Hallquest director of extension work, at the University of Pittsburg, returned to his office here today but refused to comment on the matter of divorcing his wife so she could be free to marry her "perfect love."

Professor Hallquest divorced his wife in Chicago yesterday on grounds of desertion, claiming she eloped with an unnamed Cincinnati man. In refusing to reveal the identity of the "perfect lover" for whom his wife gave up all, Hallquest said he desired to shield his wife from any unpleasantness she might suffer if his name were revealed. Asked how he felt to be deserted for another man Dr. Hallquest said:

"My feelings are just as primitive as any other person's might be in a similar case."

Then, with a wave of his hand, as he entered his office, and locked it behind him: "Let the dead past carry its own funeral."

Better Programs, Simpler Radio Sets Promised Patrons

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Promising better programs and better receptions with simpler radio sets, representatives of the larger broadcasting concerns today sought endorsement of the third national radio conference for removal of the federal one-kilowatt power restriction on broadcasting stations. In the session of a special sub-committee appointed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover to consider power limitation there was bitter strife among inventors, manufacturers and large and small broadcasters who lined up sharply for and against the high-power broadcasting system proposed by the Radio Corporation of America.

High-power plants are more efficient, cover more territory at less cost and provide for better programs than the small stations, those in favor of abolishing the low power restriction argue.

FAYETTE GRANGE MEETS SATURDAY AT POINT MARION

The third quarterly meeting of Pomona Grange will be held in the Odd Fellows Building, Point Marion, Saturday, October 11, when a program with much local color and of an educational nature will be rendered.

During the past three years the Fayette County Pomona Grange has developed from an organization surrounded by a small part of the Granges of the county into one of the county units of the State. At each quarterly meeting a large class is given the fifth degree and the Point Marion meeting will be no exception. Notice has been received by County Master Griffin that a large number of West Virginia Grangers will be present to become members of our Pomona Grange in order that they may attend the West Virginia State Grange meeting to be held at Morgantown this fall.

State Master John A. McSparren will be present at this meeting and since this is Mr. McSparren's first appearance at a Pomona meeting for a long while it is expected that a huge crowd will assemble to hear the message which he will deliver.

The afternoon meeting, at which Mr. McSparren will lecture, will be an open meeting and the public is invited to attend. The forenoon meeting will be purely of a business nature. The fifth degree will be conferred at the evening session. The ladies of the York Run, Woodside, Gallatin and Stewarton will entertain at both the noon and evening lunches.

State Sanitary Board to Discuss Mine Water Status

HARRISBURG, Oct. 8.—Members of the State Sanitary Waters Board were to take up at their meeting today the idea of getting the coal mining industry of Pennsylvania interested in a study of methods of clearing the streams of coal mine drainage such as has been worked out with the tanning industry and is under way with other manufacturing concerns discharging waste products into waters of the state.

The decision handed down at Pittsburg by the Supreme Court in the Mountain Water, or Indian creek case, is considered by the attorney general and other state officials to afford an opportunity for broaching the subject of experiments for preventing deleterious drainage from getting into the waters. The disposal experiment station being put up at Instanter by the tanning industry in coöperation with the state will be brought to the attention of the coal people.

The decisions in the cases arising out of the conditions in Fayette and Westmoreland counties have been received by Attorney General George W. Woodruff and are being studied as a basis for a possible new state policy.

There will be some application of the principle to the anthracite region as circumstances permit.

Mine Official Shot; Non-Union Men Are Blamed

By United Press.

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 7.—Leo Smallbridge, superintendent of the Rock Island Coal Company, was believed fatally wounded when he was shot from ambush at the company's mine at Merbata, near here, today. Two mine workers received slight flesh wounds when a fusillade of gun fire came from the roadside just as the starting whistle blew.

Authorities said trouble had been pending since the coal company announced recently its intention of operating on an open shop basis. The Rock Island mines had been a stronghold for union labor in the Tygarts Valley for several years.

RADICALS DENOUNCED BY SPEAKER AT STATE KIWANIS CONVENTION

GREENSBURG, Oct. 8.—Vigorous denunciation of all that is radical or unconstitutional and with a plea to uphold those things which stand for the right, was the high spot in the address of Congressman Adam M. Wyant of Greensburg, the principal speaker yesterday afternoon at the noon luncheon of delegates to the state convention of the Kiwanis club delegates. The seventh annual convention, opened in the morning in the Central fire station. The luncheon was held in the Penn Albert Hotel. There were approximately 400 present.

Congressman Wyant was the only speaker at the luncheon. He reiterated, somewhat, the observations made at the morning session of the convention by Noah H. Swayne of Philadelphia. Dr. I. C. White of Morgantown, W. Va., spoke in the afternoon.

Business of the afternoon session had to do with the reports of the district governor, Herbert A. Moore; the district secretary, Charles Taylor, and the district treasurer, George S. Connell. Chairmen of various committees also gave reports.

Governor Moore thanked the various state officials for the coöperation during the past nine months. He thanked the Greensburg Kiwanis for the excellent preparation which they made for the seventh annual convention. He also made recommendations, advocating closer coöperation on the part of various secretaries of clubs with the district office; asked for a more systematic organization; sought to have the pledge to the flag added to the regular opening exercises of each club and hoped for greater things in the future.

The district secretary's report gave, in detail the growth of the organization during the past year. There have been 10 new clubs added with an increase in membership of nearly 1,000 members. Particularly pleasing to the members of the Greensburg club was the information that it stood second in point of attendance during the present year, Greenville is first, Jeannette is in fifth place. The Greensburg club also held the top for several months.

The report of the district treasurer corresponded with that of the secretary. It showed that the finances of the organization were in splendid condition.

This morning the convention got down to more business while the women guests during the afternoon were to be entertained by the members of the Greensburg Rotary Club and their wives.

The speakers at the convention session this morning were Ralph A. Amerman of Scranton, International vice-president; Roe Fulkerson, editor of the Kiwanis magazine and Fred C. W. Parker, international secretary.

The afternoon session will be devoted to the election of officers and selection of the next convention city.

Pure-Bred Stock in Sons and Daughters-in-Law Should Be Parental Aim, Honline Says

The time has come for fathers and mothers to be as careful about the pedigree of their prospective sons-in-law and daughters-in-law as about the pedigree of their livestock, declared Prof. M. A. Honline of Pasadena, Cal., at a rally of Bible schools of the Connellsville District Tuesday evening at the Christian Church. The statement was made in connection with a discussion of the alarming increase among the feeble minded and insane of the State and Nation, which the speaker declared is out of all proportion to the increase in population.

As compared with increase of 22 per cent in population in a given period, he said, the increase in mental defectives has been 101 per cent. The statement was made by Prof. Honline that there has not been a single authenticated report of a cure of congenital feeble-mindedness, or that dating from birth. There are instances he said of cures of persons who became feeble-minded because of some functional disorder.

According to the latest figures available he said Pennsylvania three years ago had 10,000 feeble minded, of whom 6,500 were free to reproduce their kind.

"Some poor souls," he said, come into the world so warped and crooked that all the training that can be given them will not prevent them becoming criminal and insane.

Time was, he said, when it was believed that mixture of pure blood with diseased would overcome the latter. It has been found this is a mistake. The reverse is the case.

Discussing the opportunities in life, Prof. Honline declared nature sets a limit beyond which nurture cannot carry the individual. "The nature of the child," he said, "determines the nature of its development," but he insisted that all the education and nurture cannot carry one beyond the limit inherent at birth.

In every one, the speaker said there are two natures, the lower and the higher; that when a child comes into the world the lower nature is in control. The great task of religious education, he said, is to so train the child that the higher nature will gain control.

Referring to a claim that Harvard College "made" Theodore Roosevelt Prof. Honline declared that Harvard merely gave Roosevelt a chance; that he made himself. "Otherwise," he said, "why does not Harvard continue turning out 300 or 400 Roosevelts every year?"

"Education," he declared, "can never transform mediocrity into genius. All that education can do is transform potentialities into possibilities. On the other hand many an embryo genius develops. Every age has its Miltons and Cromwells but they never know it."

Discussing successful teaching he said that while one can lead a horse to water but not make it drink, the teacher can make the pupil so thirsty for knowledge that it must drink.

Lack of an ideal in modern education was pointed out. Eighty per cent of the graduates of high schools, he said, make their living with their hands. Many of them in starting out in life take blind alleys which lead nowhere.

Prof. Honline also spoke in the afternoon.

L. G. Hoover, district president, presided at both meetings. In the devotional period. A quartet composed of Charles D. Bailey, Homer C. Davis, George Laing and Herbert Ellis sang two numbers.

WESTERN IOWA IS FIGHTING GROUND FOR CANDIDATES

Not Only for Presidency But Also for United States Senatorship.

COOLIDGE ON DEFENSIVE

With Chances Favoring His Capture of the Electoral Vote; LaFollette His Strongest Opponent; South Dakota Full of Aspirants for U. S. Senator.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Oct. 8.—This is a city in which the viewpoint of three neighboring states, South Dakota, Nebraska and Iowa, tend to converge, and the amount of LaFollette sentiment noticeable is an outstanding character stic.

It may be because in this region the agricultural depression hit its hardest blows. Possibly it was because land speculation and other economic errors found more victims here than elsewhere. Anyway, there is a distinct anti-administration tone to the situation and President Coolidge is obviously on the defense.

The result of the balloting in these three states should be examined after election day for reasons other than the tallying of electoral votes. If the combined Democratic-LaFollette vote should exceed that of President Coolidge, the senators from this section will feel encouraged to keep up their differences with the administration. Should the President, however, poll a majority of the votes he can feel that his administration and conservatism generally have been approved. It may have a bearing on the vitality of the farm bloc in the next Congress.

While there is much talk about LaFollette, and unquestionably the protest vote will be large, the question now is how big a lead will the Wisconsin senator get in this end of Iowa where organized labor and farmers are contributing so materially to his cause. The informal polls taken show President Coolidge in the lead but LaFollette a close second. If western Iowa alone were to decide the result, it might be a simple matter to reach a conclusion but the other sections of the state must be canvassed.

Miss Hortense Craft was given a surprise Monday evening when she entertained the Aldino Club at her home in Orchard place when Mrs. Charles R. Craft, her mother, arranged a feature in observance of the anniversary of her birth which had escaped her mind. It was the regular meeting of the club, with ten members in attendance. The surprise came in the lunch, at which Mrs. Craft had arranged a birthday cake cleverly concealed in tissue paper shaped like a pumpkin. Hallowe'en decorations predominated. Mrs. Ora Williman of Canton, Ohio, guest of Mrs. Charles Storey of the West Side, was a guest.

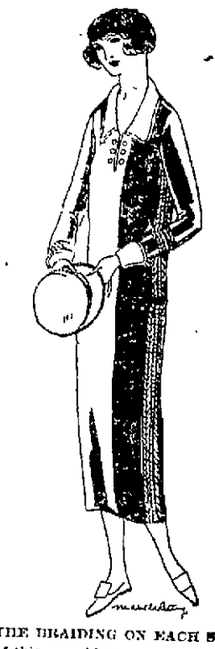
Daily Fashion Hint



THE BRAIDING ON EACH SIDE of this navy blue serge frock gives a colorful note and incidentally helps the silhouette to slimness. Dutch blue, silver, yellow, shutter green and black make the braiding a veritable rainbow. Linen collar and cuffs that are detachable and round silver buttons complete the costume.

If people only knew the facts about their skin

THE real cause of skin trouble—rashes, blackheads, excessive oiliness, etc.—is way down in the lower layers of the skin. It cannot be expected therefore that mere surface treatment can reach the disorder.

Thousands of physicians are daily prescribing Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. They know this gentle, yet effective treatment does sink deep, and will often soothe away in a few days the most stubborn rash as well as a trifling blemish. No home should be without these products—the soap for general toilet use—the ointment to check the first hit of skin eruption. At all druggists

Talks on Insurance Hazards and Rates At Kiwanis Club

In taking charge of the Fire Prevention Week program at today luncheon of the Kiwanis Club J. Donald Porter made a list of address in which he presented statistics which showed the amazing total of fire loss in the United States each year. Apportioned among the inhabitants this loss places a tax of $5 upon each person, or $25 on each family of five.

The most lamentable fact, Mr. Porter pointed out, is that two-thirds of the loss by fire, not taking into account the 15,000 lives lost each year, can be prevented.

Mr. Porter said that property owners should make careful inspection of their dwellings and places of business, giving particular attention to flues, basements, attics and other less used parts in order to see that no condition exists which would cause a fire or speed up one if started elsewhere. He also explained that the town deficiency charge is relatively high in Connellsville because the water mains are not of ample size and that our fire department is centralized at a point distant from the section of the city having the highest turnable property value.

Following Mr. Porter John C. Blair of New York City, who has been a lecturer to the classes in insurance in the University of Pittsburg, gave a talk during which he explained in detail how insurance rates for mercantile risks are established. Explaining the several deficiencies in building which increase the hazard rate and the credits which result from the elimination of deficiencies.

A Message to Particular Women of Connellsville

If you will get from your druggist a six ounce bottle of Kojene, which costs but 60 cents at Union Drug Co. and progressive druggists everywhere, you will learn some very important truths about feminine hygiene that will prove a revelation to you.

Kojene is not poisonous—you can drink it with safety, yet as an antiseptic it is four times as powerful as carbolic acid and much more powerful than bichloride of mercury, both of which are a menace to any home and should be banished from it.

Money back if you don't say Kojene is the most wonderful antiseptic in the world.—Advertisement.

Decides on Best Life Insurance

"Five years ago I was refused life insurance because of my heart symptoms. Doctors said it was caused from a pressure of gas that came from my stomach, but their medicine did not help me and I was getting worse all the time. Three years ago my druggist recommended Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I took a course of it and believe it is the best life insurance anyone can buy. It helped my trouble at once." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. A. A Clarke and druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

NERVOUS & HALF-SICK WOMEN

Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

These Three Letters Prove It

Lowell, Mass.—"I am sending you a few lines to let you know what good your medicine has done for me. I want you to let every one know that it has helped me in nervous troubles. I have four children and you know there is a lot to do where children are. They would come in from school and they would start telling me about their little troubles but I could not stand it. I had to send them away. I could not even walk on the street alone I was so nervous. I found one of your books and read it and then I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got it and had taken one bottle when I saw a change in myself. I was surprised. The children can talk all they want to now and it does not bother me. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOSEPH LEMERS, 84 South Street, Lowell, Mass.

Felt Like A New Woman

Springfield, Missouri.—"For four or five months I was run-down, nervous, my back ached and I did not feel like doing a thing. Sometimes my legs ached and felt like they would break and I had a hurting in my sides. I had been reading in the newspapers the letters of other women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the advertising of it appealed to me so I bought some and saw results in almost no time. I had hardly been able to do my own work and after taking the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to my friends who have troubles like I did, and hope they will find the same results."—Mrs. M. CARPENTER, 607 W. Chase Street, Springfield, Missouri.

40 Years Old, Feels Like 20

Hagerstown, Md.—"I was very bad off with backache, a bearing-down feeling in my body and a pain in my left side. I could not be on my feet at times and once I was so bad I walked bent over to one side for three weeks. My sister read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me a bottle. I got so much relief that I took more until I was well. I am 40 years old and feel like 20. I am sure this medicine will help all women."—Mrs. MARY E. SANDY, 406 W. Franklin Street, Hagerstown, Md.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

All druggists are having increased sales of this medicine.

Civilization and Wells

Behind the drilling of the French artesian wells in southern Algeria is, according to Phillips, the story of the slow, but usually peaceful, conquest of an old civilization by a new. Until the coming of the French in the late '50s of the last century the wells of the northern Sahara had all been painfully dug by hand, often with indifferent success. The first French wells, by good luck, were located in what is called the Oued Rir, where two of the Sahara's former rivers had once joined, and where much of the drainage from a tract of desert 700 miles long and from 300 to 400 miles broad still collected. The first artesian well, which began to flow in June, 1850, was regarded as miraculous by the natives.

As the drilling of wells progressed, new areas were added to cultivation and settled life in towns took the place of the old wandering existence for many inhabitants of the Sahara.

Wild Duck Unable to Fly

Catching birds by running after them and sprinkling salt on their tails is proverbially difficult. On one of those lonely island specks in the largest of oceans, known as the Hawaiian bird reservation, is a peculiar species of teal which has lost the power of flight. This wild duck can be easily run down by a man on foot. But as men do not come to this island once in a blue moon it would seem safe. However, it has to have fresh water and the only fresh water on the almost barren island is a small pool. Should the encroaching sands cover the pool, which seems likely, this rare flightless duck must die.

Famous London Streets

Fleet street is mainly devoted to the newspaper trade; Paternoster row is the headquarters of the book business; Downing street contains the government offices; Bow street has the celebrated police court; Holborn viaduct and Regent street are lined with fine shops; the Haymarket has many theaters and hotels, Bond street is the center of the jewelers trade, while Pall Mall is noted for its handsome buildings and club life.

Good Qualities of Bass

Bass have proved themselves to be good fathers, according to a report made by a state conservation commission. The black variety will guard its young after hatching and will defend its shoal against big odds, having been known to attack the pickerel and pike when they swim too close to its swarm.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

GIVING COOLIDGE A SUPPORTING CONGRESS.

The election of President Coolidge to a full term being more certainly assured as the campaign draws to its close, the suggestion of Senator Pepper in an address to the Republicans of New Hampshire, to send good and regular Republicans to Congress, becomes very pertinent.

"President Coolidge," said Senator Pepper, "has served the country with conspicuous success when the odds were against him. Why not give him a chance to demonstrate that he can do even more for us when legislative conditions are favorable?"

The obstinacy, waywardness, and worse, of the bloc-ridden 67th and 68th Congresses point the moral that Senator Pepper is driving home. Neither of these national legislative bodies had any sense of party responsibility nor gave much consideration to party discipline. Both made the whole nation uneasy from the day they convened until the day they adjourned. They failed to dispatch the needed business of the nation, or when they did undertake it they dragged it into a hopeless tangle of petty partisanship and selfish minorities."

"It is a habit of Americans," says the Philadelphia Ledger, "to talk much of party responsibility and bemoan the lack of party discipline in Congress before a campaign opens. After the conventions and as the campaign grows warmer we lose sight of those considerations. 'Practical politics,' in many instances short-sighted, leads to the acceptance of congressional candidates who should not be accepted. The voter forgets the general welfare of the country and votes his selfish consideration or his prejudices.

"Senator Pepper has rendered the voter, his party and the country a service by his reminder that a Congress is just as important as a White House. To deliver the best that is in him, any President must have a working majority in both houses of Congress.

"We have had enough of deadlocks between Capitol Hill and the White House in recent years. President Coolidge's election now seems assured. It should be the business then of his party, wherever possible, to send to the 69th Congress men who are his pledged supporters and who believe in the necessity of party discipline."

Republicans of the 24th Congressional District have in Representative S. A. Kendall a man who has proven his party loyalty and responsibility, hence will not be negligent of their duty to return him to the office he has filled with great fidelity to the interests of his constituency and the nation.

AMENDMENTS "E" AND "F."

Amendment "E" to the State Constitution, one of nine to be submitted to the voters at the November election, is of more direct interest to the taxpayers of the city of Philadelphia than of the state as a whole.

It is another of the amendments proposed at more or less frequent intervals for the purpose of providing the largest city of the state with new means of raising revenue by means of taxation. The amendment in question, if approved, will authorize the General Assembly to enact laws under which assessments may be made against all properties which may be specially benefited by the construction of public improvements or public utilities, by the city of Philadelphia, whether or not such properties abut on such improvements or utilities. The sums realized from such assessments shall be appropriated toward meeting the cost of the improvements or utilities, or towards the retirement of bonds issued for their construction.

The interest taxpayers outside of Philadelphia may have in this proposed Amendment will be in the possibility that it may at some subsequent time become a precedent for the enactment of laws having general application.

Proposed Amendment "F" will, if approved, make a change in the manner whereby townships, and wards of cities and boroughs, shall be divided into election districts. Under the present provisions of the Constitution such divisions shall be made in such manner as the court of quarter sessions having jurisdiction may direct, but districts in cities of over 100,000 inhabitants shall be divided by the court whenever, at the next preceding election, more than 250 voters shall have been polled therein. In other districts division shall be made whenever the court shall be of the opinion that the convenience of the electors and the public interests will be promoted thereby.

The proposed Amendment will change the foregoing so that the court shall have power to divide or change the boundaries of election districts whenever the court shall be of the opinion that the convenience of the electors and the public interests will be promoted thereby, without first requiring that more than 250 votes shall have been previously polled in the proposed new district.

Approval of this Amendment would apparently simplify or make easier the creation of new election districts for which there is urgent need in many places, Connellsville among others.

Rev. B. W. Hutchinson, D. D., is not only needed by the congregation of the First Methodist Episcopal Church to bring their building plans to fruition, but he is that type of citizen the whole community needs, hence the satisfaction that is being expressed upon his return to the local pastorate.

LaFolletteism Is Socialism

By FRED R. MARVIN,
Editor Searchlight Depart., New York Commercial.

Seeking to Control Organized Labor.

The American Federation of Labor's special committee endorsed the Socialist ticket, that is, they endorsed Robert M. LaFollette and Burton K Wheeler.

This however, has not met with approval by the members of organized labor generally. The members feel they have the same right to vote as they choose as they have to worship God as they choose.

This endorsement was secured through the system of "boring from within." For a number of years the Socialists and Communists have made marked inroads in the ranks of organized labor. In many unions these Socialists and Communists have become strong enough in numbers to control the policy of those unions. The "boring from within system" has been extended, until now, it would seem, Socialists and Communists dominate the executive committee of the A. F of L.

"The labor union is the workshop of Communism," writes A Losovoky, who, under the name of Brooks, has attended many conferences of Communists in the United States. Continuing on the same subject Losovoky, prominent in the affairs of the Communist International, says:

"There is no other way one can gain the working mass of America than to lead a systematic struggle within the union."

The Communists of the United States—the Left Wing of the Socialists and having the same objectives as the Socialists, the two factions differing only in methods to be employed to obtain these objectives—a couple of years ago, at a regular meeting, adopted this declaration:

"The road to revolution in America leads over the destruction of the power of the leadership of the American Federation of Labor. This aim can be accomplished only through work within the American Federation of Labor for the conquest of that organization. Therefore it is the main task of the Communists to work in the American Federation of Labor."

Well knowing the great majority of the members of the American Federation of Labor are loyal American citizens, how better to secure the "conquest" of this movement than to gain control, and cause the American Federation of Labor to adopt principles and purposes that are wholly out of harmony with the wishes and desires of the majority of the members?

And so the resolution to support LaFollette and Wheeler, the Socialists' candidates for President and Vice-President, was put over by the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor. Already dissatisfaction on the part of many individual unions over this action has appeared. Members of organized labor generally object to the officials telling them how they shall vote. Moreover, but few of them have any use for Socialism or the Socialists' candidates, LaFollette and Wheeler. The president and the former president of the United Mine Workers, the president of the printing pressmen's union, the former president of the longshoremen's union and many others equally as prominent, protest.

But at that a great many well meaning and loyal American citizens are being deceived. They do not know that Socialism is Communism and that Communism is Socialism.

BEHIND YOUR BACK.

The things men utter to your face
may sweetly strike the ear,
But do not trust the gentle speech men whisper when you're near,
For critics seldom criticise unless the man's away
And those who really love us best to us will little say
The proof of what men think of you
of gossip has the smack,
For it is always what is said of you
behind your back.

Beware the voice of flattery, trust not the fulsome friend,
On these for judgment of yourself
'tis dangerous to depend
They'll paint you greater than you are the truth they will not tell,
But what you are and all you are your neighbors know full well.
They know your weakness and your strength the traits you have or lack
Your reputation's founded on what's said behind your back

So tell it gossip if you will but gossip molds us all
You by men's nods and winks and smiles we either rise or fall
Here in the test all mortals face while life is in the clay
Not what we think ourselves to be but
"what do others say"
Then give to malice or to shame no reason to attack,
So live your life you need not fear
what's said behind your back

Health Ratings and School Promotion

Johnny's report card a few years hence will contain a grade in health as well as arithmetic says Dr. Bird T. Baldwin, director of the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station who contributes an article on child health to the October Hygeia, popular health magazine published by the American Medical Association.

"Health education is an integral part of all first class public school systems," Dr. Baldwin declares. "Physical examinations and physical measurements are an essential part of health education. Health ratings are just beginning to be considered a potent factor in school promotions. In a very few years every good school system will include health education ratings on the same basis on which mental examinations and education achievement ratings in arithmetic and language are made."

Thus if Johnny gets A's in most of his subject, but fails in health, he cannot enter the next grade until he has been built up physically. However, tests made on children of superior intelligence have brought out the fact that most of them are normal or superior in physical development.

Donora High School Next Opponent of Cokers; Are Being Pointed to Score

Stiff Scrimmage Held at Fayette Field; Injured Players Given Rest.

TEAM IS OPTIMISTIC

After developing a fighting power last Saturday the Connellsville High School grid machine is being pointed for a victory which if it is scored, will be the first this season

Donora High School which team laced the locals a year ago by a score of 26-0, will be here for its first appearance in this city On Saturday Donora won from McKeesport, 7-0

A hard scrimmage was indulged in yesterday afternoon The boys are developing a smashing defensive and this is exceptionally hard on the team carrying the ball Two were added to the list of "casuals yesterday and they will be allowed to ease up for the remainder of the week The punch of Coker tackles was demonstrated Saturday against Jeannette when several players left the field because their resistance powers were torn down by the fierceness of the Orange and Black defense

Connellsville ends are now producing Johnson and Stillwagon were on either side of the line with two men, equally as good in Keffer and Lowe, waiting in reserve Once the backfield develops an improved offensive, then Connellsville will become a dangerous factor in the football circuit

Dunbar Twp. Gridders Get Down to Work

Dunbar Township High School's new coach, Joseph B Streamer, has declared himself At the practice session last evening, Coach Streamer laid down the "law" to all the gridders and told them what he wanted and expected them to do, or else know the reason why

When South Brownsville comes to the Trotter field on Saturday, that eleven will be met by an entirely new team. Although the players may be the same, the team work and fighting spirit will be far more different This is the third game of the season

The team was given new signals and plays by the mentor This will mean a lot of extra work but Coach Streamer is determined to have the athletes in action every minute they are on the field

Upon assuming the coaching responsibility, Coach Streamer began making drastic changes into the lineup He sent a highly touted player to the second eleven and made it clear to him that he would stay there until he gave a better account of himself Resting assured that their new coach means "business," the gridders are getting down to work in earnest There will be no more 'fooling around' on the gridiron

The grid mentor in talking to the football men in the dressing room dwelt chiefly upon their physical condition Not a single man will be sent into the game on Saturday unless, in my estimation he is in good physical condition It's time to get down to work and you must do it and produce for the high school, or I'll know the reason why' Coach Streamer told them

Michael Zeka star backfield man who had turned in his uniform on Monday said last evening he would report his evening for practice

Six more games remain on the Red and Black's schedule Saturday's game and the following week are home games The remainder of the schedule will be played away from home Negotiations are pending with West Newton for a game on November 8 that is open

The season will close as usual with the Conn Dville High School on Thanksgiving

AGE MELLOWS JOHN McGRAW OF GIANTS

Manager Now Says It's Foolish to Protest Decision of Umpire in a Game.

It is foolish to protest an umpire's judgment, writes John McGraw Age has certainly mellowed Juwn's temper though he will still do battle if anyone calls him "Muggsy"

"Muggsy" to McGraw is like a red tablecloth to a bull Mac has gone up the social scale since the rough old days in Baltimore and he doesn't like to be reminded of the time when he would just as soon bite the ear off an umpire as to drink a glass of pop

But for all that McGraw is a great fellow He can't say no to anyone in need, and he probably gives away $5 000 to $6,000 a year in small 'touches' to old time friends, broken-down sporting characters and plain bums, who take advantage of his generosity.

As a baseball leader McGraw ranks with the great managers of the game He has uncanny judgment in picking players, and though they may take three seasons to "arrive" they are usually stars when they finally reach their prime He has infinite patience with a player he thinks will make good, and is willing to wait

Last season, when his veteran pitchers started to crack it was predicted that unless he went out and spent a fortune for hurlers the Giants would not figure in the pennant scrap this year McGraw said nothing, but bided his time Most of his time at Sarasota, Fla, this spring was spent with his young flingers

Today the youngsters are pitching the Giants to a pennant and they are so far out in front that they can't be seen with the naked eye Bentley, who was one of the sourest lemons of the '23 race, has come through and has justified Mac's faith in him Virgil Barnes has also developed into a winner after a three-year trial

"I think Barnes is ready' McGraw said at Sarasota in March "and I intend to work him regularly this season I have, always figured that he would be a winner when properly seasoned"

And McGraw had the correct hunch for Barnes is pitching fine ball this season

He had the same faith in Bentley and also figured Denny Gearin would make good. But a sore arm and an inclination to take baseball too lightly cost Gearin a chance to get into the world's series McGraw is a strict taskmaster He pays well, but won't stand for any foolishness, as Denny probably appreciates

Opposite End of Boner

Fred Merkle now knows how it feels to be on the opposite end of a bonehead play With Fred at bat and two out in a recent game against Baltimore a hit and run signal was wig wagged and Griffin and Gonzales who were on base, started with the pitch Griffin, hearing Merkle's bat come in contact with the ball, put on speed and passed Gonzales on the way to the plate It so happened that Fred's smash which went far over the fence was wasted Rochester lost three runs and the game on the bone

Deadlock in 800 Meter

The United States and England are now deadlocked in the matter of 800 meter victories in the Olympic games Each of the countries has won the race four times Joseph Loughboy Ellgrim Shepard and Ted Meredith have carried the American shield to the fore while the British victors have been Hawkins in 1908 Tysoe in 1900 Hill in 1920 and Lowe this year

Bike Race Around France

A bicycle race around France is held annually Sixty of the 177 competitors in this year's contest finished having started from Paris and covered the 1000 miles over mountains valleys and plains The winner was the Italian Bottechia whose time was 226 hours 18 minutes and 21 seconds He led consistently throughout every stage of the long endurance test

NATS EVEN WORLD SERIES; GOSLIN IS IMPORTANT FACTOR

"Goose" Gets Home Run With Two On; Hits on Four Trips to Bat.

PITCH JOHNSON TODAY

NEW YORK Oct 8—With 'Goose' Goslin rapping the ball consistently getting four hits out of four trips to the plate and one of them a home run the Washington Senators yesterday clouted their way into another victory over the Giants, evening up the series The third game at New York will be played today but it will be absolutely necessary for the teams to return to Washington on Thursday for a continuance of the series and neither club can bring the combat to a close at the metropolis

The score yesterday was 7-4 The Giants broke the "ice" first tallying in the opening stanza In the third 'Goose' Goslin laid a "golden egg' in the right field bleachers, and his homer brought in two men ahead of him

Washington bats were kept working overtime and the total soared to seven runs Meanwhile the Giants were being met by pitching and defense work that sparkled Mogridge, starting out unsteadily, steadied up and allowed only three hits to the eighth inning Then he wobbled and out of the first 13 balls pitched 11 were called balls Right there Harris pulled him and injected Marberry, his husky Texan It took him a while to get straightened out but the Giants needed many runs to tie the game and the lead was too great to overcome

Today Walter Johnson is expected to be back on the mound for the Nats and McGraw may use Nehf of Bentley

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL HOSTS AT WASHINGTON

Annual Convention Opened Today, With All Parts of Commonwealth Represented.

KEYSTONERS TAKE LEAD

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct 8—Sunday school leaders from every nook and corner of the state are pouring into Washington for the big annual state Sunday school convention which begins today Many delegates began arriving Tuesday afternoon and evening, in order to be on hand for the opening sessions this morning.

The morning session was held at the Capitol Theatre which has a seating capacity of 2,000 while the various conferences, five of which will be held simultaneously, will be held in the various churches grouped around the Second Presbyterian, which will be convention headquarters

Rev Dr Lloyd W Tomkins, who is probably the best known Episcopalian pastor in eastern Pennsylvania, and who is especially beloved because of the devotional characteristics of his sermons and addresses, opened the convention with the morning devotional period and will each morning be in charge of these services, sounding the keynote of the day's program

The morning program included the annual corporation meeting, the various committees being appointed and the board of directors recommendations being discussed by the entire convention One of the recommendations adopted last year was the forming of an educational committee, composed of the board of directors, the state field staff, and in addition to them one official representative from every denomination in the state This has meant more to the advancement of the state association's work than any other step taken in years, for under this plan every denomination has a say in the educational policies of the association's work, and it is now in reality their work

During the past year three of the members of the board passed to their eternal reward—S S Marvin William Decker and Dr C R. Blackall, and the memory of these faithful workers was honored during the first morning's service, after which the convention sermon was preached by Rev. C. J. Williamson of New Castle, who is President Craig's pastor

Prof H Augustine Smith, who is in charge of pageantry and music of the Boston University, has been here some days training those who will take part in the pageant, "The Light of the World,' which will be rendered twice in the Capitol Theatre on Friday evening. He will be in charge of the music and will introduce interpretations of Sunday school music and art in religious education

Five separate divisional conferences are scheduled for this afternoon in the various churches and these then followed by a general conference of county association officers

In Pennsylvania every fourth person is a member of some Sunday school with a total of over two and a quarter millions, with 160,000 officers and teachers.

There are over 14 000 adult Bible classes and near 11 000 Sunday schools as part of the Pennsylvania State Sunday School Association

The association employs a paid field staff of nine experts with an office force of 68 owns its own association building and requires a budget of $70,000 a year to maintain its work

The Pennsylvania State Sunday School Association stands head and shoulders above any other state in provincial associations in the world standing 87 per cent by information standards, while next to her is New York with 65 per cent.

LUMINOUS ORE BARED BY MISHAP AT MINE

Lamp Goes Out and Mineral Glow Causes Owners to Call Government Expert.

Loveland, Colo.—The fact that the oil burning lamp of Oliver Frantz and the Strong brothers became extinguished on account of lack of oil may lead to a startling discovery The men, on a recent night, were examining some ore dug from their mine The lamp went out, and in the darkness some of the dust from the specimens dropped on the hot stove

Immediately the room was made as light as day, caused from the flare from the mineral, which is believed to be a radium bearing ore Government authorities were immediately notified and the shaft closed until an investigation is made.

The mine is on Storm peak, 22 miles from Loveland and 4 miles from the main Loveland Estes Park road It can be reached by horseback from the Half Way place The shaft is 40 feet deep and the ore mined is a mixture of pitchblende fluorspar and carnalite ore.

The owners estimate that it will be two weeks before they can reach the main vein of the ore If the ore is radium bearing it may explain to a measure the reason for the terrific electric storms that prevail in that district and which have led to the naming of that peak Storm peak due to the affinity of the electricity in the air for the radium

Underthings of Black Are Favored by Women

Black lingerie has been received always with a sense of humor and as an extravagance of eccentric individuals But a considerable number of fashionable women are coming to like underthings of black; robes de nuit, step-ins and corsets

Of course there are no longer any corsets in the original sense They are all wrap arounds girdles brassieres or whatever But some of the latest models are shown in white satin trimmed with strips of black velvet ribbon and in black satin ornamented with white lace, and there are corsets of flesh-colored satin bound with black

Black corsets lined with sheer flesh-colored crepe, and corsets of filet lace lined with pink are among the most striking features of an unusual lingerie season

Rapid Progress On Grading South Connellsville St.

Contractor P. J. Ridge, with good weather prevailing, has made exceptional progress in the excavation of Pittsburg street in South Connellsville, preparatory to improving it with willite.

The big steam shovel has made its way from the borough line to a point beyond the postoffice and unless weather conditions retard the work the entire excavation job will be finished up in a few days.

It is not anticipated, however, that the entire street improvement program will be completed before next summer. The West Penn Railways Company, it is said, cannot do its part at once, which consists of moving the street car lines to the center of the street. The best that can be hoped for this fall, it is pointed out, is to get half the improved surface in.

The borough is preparing to open Youghiogheny avenue. In order to care for a stream of water which crossed the thoroughfare the borough is laying heavy pipe which will form a conduit. The street is now impassable because of a ravine which runs through it. This is to be filled by earth from the excavations for buildings to be erected for the Capstan Glass Company, work on which began on Monday.

Henry Geiger Near Death in Collapse Of Electric Crane

Henry M. Geiger, a former patrolman in Connellsville, had a narrow escape from death, and only by the use of an acetylene torch and the expertness with which it was handled, was he freed from the burden of tons of steel which imprisoned him Monday in the junk yard of Miller & Daniels in Greensburg.

The former cop was operating an electric crane when it collapsed under a load of 25 tons of steel rails. He was pinned beneath, his mouth forced over an iron pipe in such manner that he could not speak. Neither could he move and the slightest swerve of the rails would have caused death. The fire department was summoned but was unable to do anything. Then Charles Lill, an electric welder, was called upon. Had the cut been made an inch too far either way Geiger's life would have been crushed out. The steel bar, however, snapped off precisely at the right point and he was free. He was taken to the Westmoreland Hospital for treatment, but was discharged a few hours later.

When McManus requested King to return the ladder he did so with the result that Gallagher now is suing for his $8. King is in jail in default of settlement.

"The Artistic Blend"

My Skin

Is Due to a Super-Clay.

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

After 40 years in the limelight—after 36 years as a stage star—I still look like a girl of 19. The thousands who see me daily know that, and wonder how this came about.

Edna Wallace Hopper
Photo 1923

The chief reason lies in a new-type clay. I started years ago with the old-type clays, crude and muddy, which so many still employ. They brought me amazing results. But I have kept in touch with scientific progress, and in 20 years it has brought me a clay which gives multiplied results.

Today I have what experts call the last word in facial clay. It is white, refined and dainty. And it embodies many new discoveries. Until I obtained this, I never knew one-tenth what clay could do.

Now I am supplying this clay to others. I call it my White Youth Clay. All druggists and toilet counters have it—exactly the clay I use. And I am stating its results to girls who want more beauty and to women who want youth.

My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which amazes and delights. Many women seem to drop ten years with one application.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. No girl or woman who once enjoys its results will ever go without it.

I want you to know what it does. My good fortune obtained it for me. I was famous as a beauty, so every expert sought to give me the greatest aids to beauty. Now I wish to bring like benefits to millions.

Write me for my Beauty Book and I'll send with it something else to please you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 530 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.—Advertisement.

NEW VALAZE COMPACTS

Another "Rubinstein Innovation"

After countless efforts to overcome the common disadvantages of compressed powders and rouges—namely, the drying effect upon the skin, the fragility, the lack of proper adhering quality, and the lustreless and over-artificial character of the colors—I am pleased to be able to announce that I have worked out an ideal solution.

All of my Valaze Compact Powders and Rouges are now being made on a Scientifically Blended Base of My Pasteurized Face Cream. The Valaze Compact Powders and Rouges now have the velvety smoothness, the lasting quality, the beautiful color lustre, and the marvelous skin-improving element which is the essence of Pasteurized Cream; and these four outstanding qualities—new ones—advance compressed powders and rouges to a degree of perfection hitherto undreamed of.

The Sparkle of the New Gay Parisian Tints.

Health-rouge and health-powders, for that is what they are, delicate and of exhilarating new shades—captured within these little cakes—you should see them—how they sparkle!

There's Geranium. All of youth's vivacity is in this delicious shade. The quaint spice flavor of the merry little flower that dots with vivid red the cottage windows—Bonny and blythe—there's Geranium. It is the shade for widely varying types and to be had only in the Valaze Compacts.

Tangerine's next in favor. Piquant, pungent, picturesque; the rouge most deur to blondes. Thrilling, inspiriting—tangerine whispers glamorously.

Crushed Rose Leaves with their hint of springtime gardens. They are wistful, tender, remembering. This rouge is unobtrusive. Crushed Rose leaves hint of springtime gardens.

Raspberry, the sun-lit rouge peeping pertly from the bush and coquetting with the like-colored cherry on the bough. Winking, smiling, playful rouge. Who will have the raspberry rouge? Aye, who would not! At $1.00 each shade.

And then these same fascinating compacts in powders, all shades that appeal, the deep mysterious rachel, the frank flesh, the mat, indolent ochre and the delicate ivory white. $1.00 each.

They come in Twin Vanities, elegant, aesthetic—powder rouge, and puffs in each, at the exceptional price of $1.50, in all ravishing "Rubinstein" shades.

They come also, rouge and powder (all shades separately) with puffs in refills for the price of $1.50.

Indelible Lip Lustre (Lipstick).

Luscious in color as the dangling cherry. The tint comes off only with washing. In new mat gold containers with halnge top and screw bottom, preventing the staining of glove or fingers. In shades dark, medium and light, $1.00, $1.50.

The Paramount

"RACING FOR LIFE."—Those who remember how thrilling and entertaining "The Battling Fool" was will welcome the arrival of the second Perfection Picture, "Racing For Life," featuring Eva Novak and William Fairbanks, which comes to the Paramount Theatre for a two-day attraction beginning today.

The fact that the producers have left no effort slip by to make the entire series of Perfection Pictures truly entertaining, with the punch and human interest that the public like to see.

In "Racing For Life" Fairbanks contributes some real dramatic acting as well as a number of thrills that will hold you in suspense until the very end. His racing to a championship is one of the most notable screen spectacles recently filmed. Many Fairbanks fans will be glad to see him again with his usually appealing stunts.

Eva Novak, who plays the leading lady, gives a superb performance, once more supplying ample reason why she has become a favorite in filmdom.

The Soisson

"FLOWING GOLD." — Although many narrow escapes were experienced during the making of Richard Walton Tully's screen version of "Flowing Gold," the First National picture at the Soisson today, rabbits' feet must have been plentiful on the various sets, as there were no fatal or very serious mishaps.

Anna Q Nilsson, in the role of Allegheny Briskow, fractured a rib while lifting Milton Sills, as Calvin Gray, from the platform of a blazing oil derrick. Luckily this occurred during one of the last "shots" made for the production, and she gamely finished her work.

Milton Sills and John Roche staged their big fight scenes one evening, and were actually engaged in fisticuffs for rehearsals and otherwise, for five hours. They were, of course, overheated, and the following day Sills spent most of his time in cold water, making some of the spectacular "water stuff," with the result that he was crippled for several days, a severe cold settling in his back.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Being Respectable."

The Orpheum

"THE DANGEROUS MAID."—The speed of the film industry was demonstrated when Glenn MacWilliams, who filmed Constance Talmadge's 17th century English comedy-drama, "The Dangerous Maid," flew from Catalina Island by seaplane and raced from San Pedro by machine to the Joseph M Schenck laboratories in Hollywood to rush through the developing of the day's negative. MacWilliams had the developed film in the hands of Director Victor Heerman before the start of work the next morning.

MacWilliams covered the distance from Catalina to Hollywood in two hours. The 5,000 feet of developed negative was turned out in time for the carrier to be back in Catalina by 8 o'clock the next morning. The last scenes of "The Dangerous Maid" were shot on the island.

"The Dangerous Maid" is a First National picture, which is at the Orpheum today.

In the cast, besides Constance Talmadge, are Conway Tearle, her leading man; Morgan Wallace, Tully Marshall, Marjorie Daw, Charles Gerrard, Lou Morrison, Otto Matieson, Wilson Hummel, Kenneth Gibson, Ann May, Kate Price, Thomas Ricketts, Phillip Dunham, Jack Dillon and Ray Hallor.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Tom Mix in "Ladies to the Board," a Fox picture.

The Arcade

At the Arcade Theatre, the beautiful and realistic picture which has made production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" world-famous are the little cabin of Uncle Tom, an old southern road, Skinner's tavern the ice-gorged river by moonlight, the grand old home of Phineas Friend the wild rocky pass in southern Ohio, St Claire's home, showing a tropical garden with its fragrant magnolia and orange trees, among which nestles the typical southern plantation residence, the home of Eva, corridor at St Claire's the great New Orleans levee and slave mart, a moss-covered road near Legree's a street in New Orleans, Legree's plantation on the Red River with the cotton in full bloom, and the transformation entitled "The Celestial City." The version involves 30 important characters and is told in four acts and 28 scenes. Ten negroes are carried to fill out the pictures and introduce their plantation pastime. The engagement will open next Monday at the Arcade Theatre.

Clears Complexion

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE is a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father, brother, husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

Men are fascinated by the charm of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps, wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness which is not theirs. But why the wondering — the hoping — the praying for that craved for attractiveness—that clear skin—that beauty. A clear skin—is the barometer of one's condition. A healthy skin radiates beauty. Pure, clean blood means a clear skin.

S.S.S. is waiting to help you. It will rid your blood of its impurities and give you that clear complexion. 62 Year Old Lady Thanks Skin Tone Capsules for Her Present Health

Life-Long Sharon, Pa., Lady Gladly Indorses New Remedy, Declares There Is Health and Strength in Every Dose.

Mrs. Susie McCalen, 52 Sharpsville avenue, Sharon, Pa. She says: "Skin Tone Capsules certainly has proved a wonderful thing for me. I was a chronic sufferer from constipation and nothing gave me more than temporary relief. I had headaches very often and became nervous and run down. I lost all appetite for food, had a dull aching in my back, and the poison in my blood came out in the form of pimples and boils which caused me to give up my household duties and go to bed. Doctors' medicine didn't seem to give me much relief. My son was telling my condition to the druggist and he recommended this remedy for me, and after taking four boxes I am well again."

Skin Tone Capsules are made from the purest drugs obtainable and act directly on the liver and kidneys, carrying off all the poisons that the system takes in. Purifies the blood, aids digestion and creates an appetite and is a wonderful system builder. But there is more to say about this remarkable remedy. Something that will interest thousands of despondent people. Skin Tone Capsules not only relieves stomach distress, but also conquers stubborn indigestion and puts an end to dizziness, nervousness, sleeplessness and constipation

The specialist at the Connellsville Drug Co. says no one should confuse this remedy with anything they have ever taken, for this new tonic discovery will prove different. I want everyone to call on me and hear the story of this new remedy.—Advertisement.

Good Results From Use of Printer's Ink

A peddler knocked at great-grandmother's door, says the Portland Press-Herald. "Want any nutmegs?" he asked, as he showed her his offering of beautiful, big nutmegs, at a price ridiculously low. Grandfather and all the then-little great-aunts and great-uncles loved the nutmeg's spicy flavor, so great-grandmother stocked up with a generous order. That night out of the oven came a glorious old-fashioned rice pudding, and out of the cupboard came the grater and one of the new nutmegs to give it the final touch of deliciousness. But the scrape of the nutmeg upon the grater did not produce the tasty flavoring—the result was sawdust. Grandmother had bought a wooden nutmeg from the Connecticut peddler.

We do much better nowadays. Advertised merchandise protects great-grandmother's great-granddaughters. Today the manufacturer uses printer's ink to tell about his product and he signs his name to the statement. And then he makes his statement good, for advertising builds confidence, and confidence means trade. The continued patronage of the advertising columns shows that it pays the advertisers; the fact that no wooden nutmegs are sold today is one of the many signs that show how advertising helps readers.

Mays Beat Athletics

In the nine seasons that Carl Mays pitched in the American league, he faced the Athletics 38 times in the games that counted in the won and lost columns for him. He came through a victor in 35—a percentage in games won of .921. There is no record in baseball along this line that equals this work.

in order to form an intelligent estimate. The writer proceeds to Des Moines tomorrow.

There are, however, certain signs in this part of Iowa that Senator Brookhart will not carry with him all the Republican voters and that his outspoken denunciation of the Republican vice presidential nominee will cost him some regular votes he might otherwise receive. Several conservative Republicans, for instance, are openly saying that they intend to vote for Dan Steck, the Democratic candidate for United States Senator. If Mr. Brewer had kept out of the independent Republican column, undoubtedly Senator Brookhart would have had his lead in the state cut down.

The Republicans who favor Brookhart, on the other hand, are not all of them hostile to President Coolidge. It all depends on how many Republicans can be carried along by Brookhart to the LaFollette column. Still, the Republican majority in this state is so big that the party would have to be split 50-50 to make Iowa go for LaFollette, though a coalition of Democrats and LaFollette votes might be sufficient to squeeze the state for the third party candidate.

Most of the well-informed men in this end of the state concede that it is a defensive struggle with the contest so close as to make the outcome largely a matter of conjecture. For one thing the reaction to the Brookhart attack on Coolidge has not fully developed. The next two weeks may see a distinct cleavage between Brookhart and LaFollette on one side and Coolidge and Steck on the other.

John W. Davis' opportunities to carry Iowa lie entirely in a possible change of sentiment in the last weeks of the campaign. Should it become apparent that LaFollette is going to carry Iowa, many Republicans may turn their votes to Davis. Almost anything might happen in Iowa.

South Dakota is another close state. The Democrats have an excellent chance there to elect as United States Senator, U. G. Cherry. Seven candidates are opposing Mr. Cherry. Four of them are for Coolidge and three are Non-Partisan Leaguers. In a state which has eight candidates for United States senator, any single man who can keep a nucleus together has the best chance to win. That's why Cherry's chances are excellent. The Democratic vote is relatively small, however and before the end of the campaign Governor Sorlie, a radical who is supporting President Coolidge more or less perfunctorily, may capture the lead.

There is another reason why South Dakota is unique. The third party has had a long start there. As in Minnesota a Farmer-Labor Party has sprung up. But the Democrats who were forced into third place by the situation in 1920 moved back into second place in 1922 when the Republicans polled about 75,000, the Democrats 55,000 and the Third Party 40,000 votes. LaFollette seems to be assured of a consolidated support notwithstanding the distributed effort of the seven senatorial candidates.

The race is between LaFollette and Coolidge in South Dakota with the situation so arranged on account of the local interests that Mr. Coolidge has a fairly good chance of carrying the electoral vote.

Couldn't Blame Barnum for Elephant's Color

Old circus men are fond of relating how the white elephant of the Barnum & Bailey Greatest was brought into the country. The coming of the sacred elephant had been heralded for days. Finally the ship was sighted and the press department took a bunch of newspaper writers down the bay to meet the great card of next season's show, P. T. Barnum himself was in the party. All hands were taken aboard and then down into the dim light of the hold to look at the pure white specimen from India. Then a dinner followed at which the grape was a feature. Then another look at the elephant to see if he was still white. While this was going on a doubting newspaper man remarked to Mr. Barnum that he did not think the elephant was so darned white.

"Well," replied the circus man, "I'll tell you. This reminds me of the times up Bridgeport way when I was sparking. I noticed at a surprise party one night a very pretty girl who had remarkable color in her cheeks, and I said to my boy friend: 'I wonder if that peach bloom is real.'

"To my dismay, the girl heard the remark and turning on me she said with a snap, 'Phineas Barnum, God made that color in my cheeks.'"

Continuing, Mr. Barnum said: "Boys, God made this white elephant. I assure you had he been made by Mr. Bailey and myself he would be as white as the driven snow."—Wells Hawks in Collier's.

POULTRY

SUNLIGHT BIG AID IN CHICKS' GROWTH

Sunlight, as a direct cure for leg weakness, has been proven successful at the poultry department of the Wisconsin college of agriculture.

Experimental work with young chickens has demonstrated that leg weakness can be entirely prevented by exposing chicks to direct sunlight. Leg weakness is caused by lack of normal development of the bones due to lack of the right kind of feed. Another term applied to the disease is rickets and the scientist claims leg weakness is brought about directly by the absence of the anti-rachitic vitamine in the chick's ration, or in the absence of direct sunlight.

"A remarkable development in animal nutrition is the recognition that light is equivalent or supplementary to the anti-rachitic vitamine," declares J. G. Halpin of the poultry department.

"Since the ever increasing development of artificial incubation and brooding of chicks, considerable loss has resulted from leg weakness. In order to combat this injurious disease, poultry men must feed a ration which contains the necessary vitamine. This vitamine is present in cod liver oil, eggs, and some other materials. Unless the early chicks can get into direct sunlight or are fed material of this nature, they will be seriously handicapped in their development.

If the chicks cannot be placed out of doors or in direct sunshine, as is the case often with early hatched chicks, suitable additions to the rations should be fed to substitute for the necessary sunlight. A very satisfactory ration has been prepared by Halpin, and consists of the following ingredients.

Yellow corn, 80 parts; middlings, 20 parts; bone, 5 parts; lime rock, 5 parts; salt, 1 part; and skim milk to drink.

This ration is very successful when direct sunlight is supplied.

Regularity in Feeding Helps Prevent Ailments

Chickens are subject to two disturbances of the crop—crop bound and pendulous crop. Pendulous crop is usually due to inflammation of the digestive tract which causes distension of the crop with gas or liquid food. Crop bound is caused by an obstruction of the crop from eating long wilted grass, gorging on grain or a clogging of the lower opening of the crop. In either case it is important to clear the crop. This may be done in the crop-bound bird by making the bird swallow a dose of oil, and after working the crop gently to loosen the mass, suspend the bird by the feet—don't hold them tightly together—and removing the mass from the mouth. Several spoonfuls of warm water with a little soda in it will help. Keep the bird without food for a day, then feed sparingly on soft, easily digested foods or give raw eggs in milk. Regularity in feeding will help prevent crop-bound cases.

Weed Seeds in Scratch Feeds Is Cause of Loss

As a result of high percentages of weed seeds found in scratch feeds the Ohio department of agriculture is cautioning purchasers to watch carefully on the labels for the percentage noted. It is declared by the department that this type of feed loses much of its value when more than 5 per cent consists of weeds. One sample of scratch feed recently analyzed which did not contain the analysis as required by law was found to consist of 26.8 per cent weed seed. The law does not limit the amount of weed seed that may be contained in such feed.

APPROPRIATE

After many conferences had been held by the board of directors of a small-town bank about buying a new water-cooler, a grouchy old member had this to say:

"Gentlemen, before we adjourn, I move that our next conference be held on a merry-go-round."

And, as they looked at him in astonishment, he added the tag of explanation:

"We never get anywhere."—Wall Street Journal.

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College

Visit State College—Late October will be a good time for farmers of Pennsylvania to visit their State College. On October 25 the college will observe its first Potato Field Day and the same day the second annual State Standard Poultry Production Show will start. The week from October 20 to 25 a special short course will be given for the purpose of training young men as cow testers.

With the Flowers—Candidum lilies are among the first type of lilies and the most persistent. They can be planted until the middle of November, although the earlier they are planted the more likely they are to bloom the first year.

Poultry—Do not force pullets too heavily when they are first placed in the laying houses. To get steady production throughout the year, be sure that they carry a surplus amount of body fat at the beginning of the season. Feed scratch grain heavily before they begin to lay.

Soft Corn—Good ventilation in the corn crib or the addition of salt to the soft corn as it is shoveled in will help to keep it. Some farmers force air through the crib at intervals with the silage blower to aid the drying process.

Lime Now—Early October is an excellent time to apply lime to sour soils, where plowing or harrowing is to take place. It is better than taking a chance on another wet, late spring.

Swine Care—Porkers will put on weight quicker and cheaper if they feel good. Crude oil or crank case drainings will keep down lice and mange mites, applied by hand or by means of soaked burlap tied to rubbing posts.

CHAPTER I.

Andrea Pellor stood on the edge of the cliff at the back of the Indian Ocean hotel and gazed out across twenty-five miles of moonlit bay. It was not for lack of a partner that she stood alone. She had promised this very extra to four insistent men, but had excused herself to one after another of them, "Just for a moment. Just while I powder my nose."

They had all seen her run up the stairs in the main hallway; they had not seen her travel steadily on through the length of the hotel and come down the ladder-like exit into the garden. Why had she done it? That was a question that she herself could not have answered but that did not occur to her as a matter for solution so often had a similar impulse snatched her momentarily away from a crowded world.

Andrea had a past, but very little history. She was the only daughter of Lord Pellor of Pellor a land-poor baron who could distribute five titles among his five sons but very little cash. As a result Andrea had lived the life, if life you can call it, of tabulated impoverished English gentlewomen: Everything that the traffic will bear for the men of the family and for the girl just enough frocks at her coming out to dissemble the bait that clothes the hook that catches the man with millions.

During her first season offers had come to her; not the measured advances of buyers in the marriage market, for about the brow of such budding maidenhood as had been hers there hangs a guardian halo that blinds the eyes of sane-aged men, but the clean-leaping onslaughts of youth-maddened hearts.

It was in her fifth season that the arbiters of her fate raised the shears of destiny and clicked them. He who fell to her lot was a man of humble origin who had reached the ripe age of fifty-eight without ever having had time to marry. His life, with a difference, had been just as narrow, hide-bound and conventional as had hers. The difference was that he had trailed the stereotyped Dick Whittington trail to high finance rather than the social highway. He had started out in Africa with a pack of cheap jewelry, an open mind and an easy conscience, and had emerged after twenty-five years as one of the few Gentiles in the combine that controls the world's diamond output. His wealth was so great that an ultimate peerage was almost a matter of course. But, as usual, an aristocratic marriage had to come first.

The contract was as cold-blooded as any ever perpetrated by a royal house. Allowances, carefully graded, were stipulated to be paid at fixed times to Andrea's parents and to each of her five brothers. She herself came in for a large and inalienable marriage settlement and was further secured in such details as to where the town residence was to be located as well as to the number and nature of the country places which were to be maintained.

When the document was finally completed it was casually submitted to Andrea for approval. Nobody dreamed that she would doubt for a moment that those in family authority were most able to decide what was best for her and nobody was right. She merely skimmed through the typewritten pages of the prenuptial agreement, satisfied herself that a vast sum of money was destined to the upkeep of Pellor and dreamy-eyed with sudden memories, nodded her adorable head in consent.

All doubtless would have taken its appointed course had not the European war put in its mightily disconcerting finger. Surprising things happened in South Africa. Andrea's affianced sailed on twenty-four hours' notice. The diamond mines closed down, took a short nap, and then suddenly awakened to the fact that America alone was demanding as much of their product as had the whole world before it turned its entire attention to making munitions and paying for them. Andrea's betrothed found himself harnessed to his job, possibly for the duration of the war. As a result it was decided in family conclave that it was incumbent upon Andrea to take advantage of a providential detail of two of her brothers on the Nyassaland expeditionary force and accompany them, surrendering St. George's chapel for a quiet marriage in the colonies.

It was a blow, but the fact that the entire set of tapered allowances would not start until the sacrificial ceremony had taken place more than offset the loss in pomp. Andrea started for Africa escorted not only by the aforementioned brothers but by old Aunty Gwen hale and hearty at seventy in spite or perhaps by reason of having been frightened out of many years of growth. So here they were, Aunty and she, on the point of parting with the two boys at the last possible port up the coast and whose inhibitions had seized upon the occasion to give a grand ball in the mode of the English, who have ever danced, courted and loved best when on the eve of battle.

Andrea drew a long and quivering sigh. Tomorrow the boys would be gone. Tomorrow Aunty Gwen and she would depart in state in the private car her affianced, too busy to the last for the soft preliminaries of love had sent down from the high veldt. Tomorrow—tomorrow would indeed mark the beginning of the end. "The end of what?" cried something within her—that same something that had so often spurred her to momentary escape.

She felt a great despondency, a terror of the morrow that would bring the end of nothing but that nevertheless would mark the death of part of Andrea Pellor. Then a more startling emotion seized her. She realized, almost with the sharpness of a recoil, that she was on the verge of becoming forever a woman without a history. She looked back and saw that she had never done one outre thing, she looked forward and saw that she probably never would; she looked down and—

At her very feet was the coping that edged the almost precipitous cliff. Upon the pale stretch of sand was a far-away blur, a dark, wide-winged blot. She concentrated her unbelieving gaze upon it until she made it out beyond a doubt. It was an airplane. Two midget figures moved around it busily.

Andrea watched the midgets dreamily and thought of all the stories she had read about flying machine elopements. As she stood there her diaphanous second-best party dress and her loosened hair stirred by the spice-laden breezes of an Indian ocean dawn and her eyes full of the still, fairy light of a tropic moon, the thing drying its vast wings on the distant sands seemed like a giant moth strayed from some Arabian Night and sent in answer to the cry of childhood's valiant fancy.

Who were those midget dots? Were they men or genii? Whence had they come and whither would they go? Did they talk with tongues or like Brownies, with their toes and eyes? Andrea wondered all these things, suddenly stopped wondering, slipped up the ladder-like stair from the garden to her room, snatched up a warm cloak affair which buttoned in a high collar at her neck and that fell sheer in ever-widening folds from her shoulders to her ankles, and in less time than it would take to say Jack Robinson a hundred and fifty times she was slipping and sliding down the path of many slants.

"Please, Mr. Man, Take Me With You"

She came upon the airplane so suddenly that she forgot to be disappointed at its gross materialism. It was very real indeed, so were the men who attended it. One was the tallest, blackest, nakedest native she had yet seen, a mighty statue in unimagined bronze, paganly clothed only at the loins with a spotted pelt. The other was a white man gone brown in the sun. He was neither very young nor old, he carried himself erect with the bearing of a man who is full-grown and knows it, and when he moved he gave an exhibition of long, thin muscles under a perfect control. His mouth seemed to be possessed of a smile that never wavered in spite of the fact that he held a piece of wire between his teeth and was otherwise intent on a number of things.

It was the black man who first sensed Andrea's presence and gave warning to his master in a low, guttural, rolling string of flowing vowels. The white man did not look round, he merely shrugged his shoulders and went on with his job. Andrea watched him in silence until she was convinced that everything that could be done to the machine was about to be accomplished and its proprietor on the verge of flying away and then emboldened by that unwavering smile she said in such a voice as children use when pleading for cake, "Please, Mr. Man, take me with you."

She knew a good deal about flying machines; she knew they couldn't stay up very long and that if they were worth anything at all they invariably came back to where they started from like well-trained pigeons. She had left her door locked and she figured that she would be back long before Aunty Gwen could work her self up to the point of having it broken in. When her voice rang across the silence of the false dawn, clear and light as a silver bell giving tongue across snow, the white man started and dropped the wrench he was manipulating. He caught it in midair; then let it fall to the ground deliberately and turned to look her over.

She was certainly something to see and to wonder at. Her eyes of Irish blue danced with a light younger than her face—a light that attends the eternal wistful child within us—but beneath their shining gaze were shadows and her cheeks were over-pale. Just to one side of her rounded chin was a bit of black courtplaster shameful mask of a tiny sign of too much chocolates and too little exercise. She was slim enough to look tall in spite of that cloak-like affair of dark blue glove cloth that fell from her shoulders to her ankles in ever-widening folds.

Through all his inspection the man's face never changed. He looked her over deliberately, judged deliberately, and deliberately let down the little ladder that gave access to the observer's seat. He helped her up without a word, strapped her in and then turned to pour out voluble instructions in dialect to the bronze statue that stood at attention black eyes fixed on his master's face, red lips repeating like a prompter in a Latin theater all that his master said.

The white man clambered to the driver's seat, placed before Andrea's, and shouted a word of command. The plane swayed, moved slowly forward, raced fast down the sand and faster, until with a billowy lift it rose straight in the eye of the rising sun.

Andrea started to draw a full breath of absolute joy and instead swallowed an entire gale of wind. It almost burst her open. She had to clench her teeth to conquer it, and with her hands made a vizor for her eyes, a wind mask for her mouth. She wanted to sing but she was inarticulate in the face of an element at large and spurring for another chance to rush down her throat. She felt the cheated song racing around in her blood swelling her heart, informing all her limbs with a new joy, a new life.

She swayed this way and that, looked up and down; then she leaned far out to study the rugged brown face of Mr. Man, the face that always smiled. From where she sat at his shoulder the goggles were not so complete a mask. She looked and her eyes became fixed in a fascinated stare. Two deep lines lay like parentheses from the man's nostrils to the corners of his mouth. They made his mouth look as though it smiled, but the man was not smiling. Suddenly she knew that through it all, from the moment he had laid his masked eyes upon her he had never smiled. Her heart turned cold.

San Francisco Plans Addition to Water Front

San Francisco—The water front of San Francisco will be extended 20 miles beyond its present limits for the development of a great industrial section, if the United States government approves plans for dredging a deep-water ship canal south from Hunter's point in San Francisco, to Ravenswood in San Mateo county. The project is being pushed not only by San Francisco but by every city and district for 50 miles down the peninsula to San Jose.

Besides dredging a channel, it is planned to reclaim 20,000 acres of tidelands for industrial sites. The land would be reclaimed through use of the dredged earth.

Government aid has been asked only for the channel. The reclamation and wharfage improvements are to be undertaken by private interests, together with the state and the counties involved. The entire project will involve many millions of dollars.

San Francisco has a water front that is owned and operated by the public. Title to the property is in the state of California and harbor affairs are administered by a board of three harbor commissioners.

The city at present has 15 miles of berthing space for vessels, with 5,000,000 square feet of cargo area. The new facilities are intended to increase the harbor space to more than double and to provide a vast number of potential factory sites.

Hungary Tightens Law Governing Foreigners

Budapest—According to a bill now before the Hungarian parliament, the powers of the police to deport foreigners without appeal or redress are to be strengthened and "residence permits" are to be still more grudgingly given than hitherto.

No foreigner is allowed to remain in Hungary a single day without police permission, and the new bill makes all permits available only for the place in which they are granted.

But the Hungarian home office has somewhat allayed the fears of foreigners already resident in Hungary by explaining that the new bill aims only at consolidating and simplifying the system of control and eliminating undesirables and will not in practice mean Hungary a less agreeable country to live in.

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

The High Cost of Postponing Permanent Highway Building

Poor motor roads stifle industry and agriculture, waste huge sums annually in high maintenance costs, and greatly increase gasoline, tire and repair bills.

There is not a state, not a county, not a community, that isn't paying a heavy price for having too few permanent roads.

There are still many sections of the country—even whole states—that are trying to operate twentieth century traffic over nineteenth century roads.

This is costing millions of dollars every year, and will keep on costing millions until we have well developed permanent highway systems everywhere.

Even what we often call the more progressive communities are far behind the demands of modern highway traffic with its 16,000,000 motor vehicles.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Canada to Mexico, we need more Concrete roads—the roads for twentieth century traffic.

Your highway officials want to be of the greatest possible service to you. Get behind them with ways and means that will provide more Concrete roads and streets. Such an investment will pay you big dividends year after year.

PEOPLE WOULD PAY IF RAILROADS WERE GOVERNMENT OWNED

Third Party Plan Would Take Revenue From States Involved.

If the railroads of the United States should be taken over, owned and operated by the government, the vast taxes now paid by the railroads would have to be paid by the people, according to Will R Wood, member of congress from Indiana and chairman of the Republican National Congressional committee. Mr. Wood has made a careful analysis of the situation, noting the tax payments by the railroads to the several state governments last year.

If the ronds were owned by the government they would be tax free just as the post offices now are. The states would still need the money, just as they do now, and as a result additional taxes would have to be levied on the citizens.

Mr. Wood's complete analysis follows:

"Robert M. LaFollette, the Socialist-third party candidate for President, is trying to convince 6,000,000 farmers that the surest cure for their ills is to bring about government ownership of all the railroads in the country; that, if this is done, transportation rates of all kinds would be immediately reduced.

"There are a lot of things, however, that would transpire if this scheme were carried out, that Senator LaFollette is woefully silent upon. He is not telling the farmers that the government pays no taxes on its properties and that it would pay no taxes on the railroads of the country if it owned them. He is not telling them that the railroads are paying into the various county and state treasuries of the United States more than $300,000,000 annually, which sum would have to be paid, in large part, by the farmers, once the government began the ownership of the railroads.

"Take the state of Wisconsin for instance: Last year the railroads paid the state of Wisconsin $7,321,970 in taxes. In the state of Minnesota the railroads paid, last year, a total tax to the state of $5,425,052. In Iowa they paid $6,849,703; in Kansas, $6,789,946; in Indiana, $13,094,627. In these five states alone the railroads paid $42,481,634 of the public tax burden. I have taken the figures in the above named states because they are largely agricultural and in the event that the government became the owner of the railroads of the country the farmers of these states would have to bear the greatest part of the burden in paying these additional taxes.

"In the state of Iowa if the LaFollette scheme were carried out, it would mean an increase of $32 in taxes annually levied against each farm in the state, or $2.80 for each man, woman and child in the state. In Kansas the burden would be $40 against each farm or $3.00 for each resident of that state. In Minnesota, where Mr. LaFollette is making a strong appeal for votes, he would take away from the farmer, under the government ownership plan, a tax income now paid by the railroads and place it as an additional assessment of $47 against each farm in the state, or $3.90 against each person residing in that commonwealth.

"I am told that, in one county in Montana, the total tax paid by the railroads amounts to 38.51 per cent of the entire levy. In midsummer of this year there was $104,102 of the total tax assessed in that county delinquent, upon which a penalty had been laid. This is convincing evidence that this county was already taxed much more than it was able to pay. Yet Mr. LaFollette would take away 38½ per cent of the tax revenue of this county, now being paid by the railroads, and place it as an additional burden upon the individual taxpayer.

"In my own state of Indiana, the railroads pay $13,094,627 in taxes annually. The total tax of the state is $124,800,750. The railroads share of this tax is over 10 per cent. If Mr. LaFollette's scheme were put into effect, the individual taxpayer of Indiana would have to pay this additional sum of $13,094,627 each year. In Marion county the railroads pay annually $715,388 in taxes, a very substantial item in the total of the taxes paid in that county.

"The figures that I have given, applicable to the five agricultural states named, differ only in degree from those that might be given for every other state in the Union.

"Not only would the farmers be burdened by the payment of these additional taxes, should the government become the owners of the railroads, but they would also have an additional burden to bear, the size of which it is hard to ascertain, in the shape of deficits occurring in the operation of the railroads of the country for maintenance, extensions and upkeep.

"Some idea of what this burden would be, may be had, however, by recalling the experience during the period of government operation of the railroads under the management of William G. McAdoo, when the amount of the deficit over the earnings of those railroads taken over by the government was more than a million dollars a day, exclusive of the payment of exorbitant salaries to an army of officers.

"The farmers of this country, before they accept the panacea of government ownership of railroads, which is but a forerunner of the socialistic state, will do well to 'Stop, Look and Listen.'"

PROMINENT IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY

Because "Jimmy" O'Connell, centre fielder of the New York Giants, confessed he tried to bribe Heinie Sand, shortstop of the Philadelphia Nationals, to "throw" a game and clinch the pennant for the Giants, Dan B. Johnson, president of the American League, and Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, demanded that the World Series with Washington be called off. Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, who escaped from a Federal prison when he was permitted to go to Maryland to seek gold he had "buried" there, has been missing from his German haunts since April 6, and his friends declare he has returned to America and is in hiding. The watchfulness of Governor Alfred E. Smith probably averted another calamity such as the death of young Calvin Coolidge, Jr., Governor Smith discovered that his young est [illegible] Walter, was suffering from a stiff arm. Physicians found acute [illegible] poisoning, and an immediate operation saved the lad's life.
